OPENING REMARKS

It has been nearly 13 years now since we released the first ever issue of StarCentral Magazine and I want to both share a couple of thoughts as well as wish you all the best for 2020. Firstly, I want to thank the great people behind StarCentral Magazine who are tirelessly working behind the scenes to ensure that our magazine and website is in tip top shape. You should all be proud of the significant contribution you make to the overall StarCentral business. Like any business there are, of course, ways we could improve. Working together, I am confident that we can elevate StarCentral Magazine to an even higher level next year. I'm definitely looking forward to working with you all again this 2020, and for those of you who are going on a break, I hope you enjoy some much needed quality time with family and friends. God bless.

EDITOR'S NOTES

I met someone today who was shocked to learn that I was completely comfortable traveling alone. To me, it was natural. Being a single, unmarried woman never hindered me from indulging my wanderlust. And in my encounter with this person, it saddened me to learn that they had never gone anywhere because they thought that they would be lonely traveling by themselves. Oh, the stories I could have told them!

Dear StarCentral readers, take this lesson away with you. Never let assumptions or that fear of the unknown hold you back! This goes with every journey you take in your life – be it to a different country or a different career, or even making a new friend or starting a new relationship. Every experience can only enrich that incredible miracle that is you! May you never taste that bitter disappointment of looking back at your life, and wishing that you did more.

GERMANI JEWELLERY

Germani Jewellery has been established as an Italian brand in Australia since 1985. It became a household name for fine jewellery when it became an exclusive sponsor for the national TV show, 'Sale Of The Century' from 1988 to 2001.

Germani's extensive experience in creating distinctive, cosmopolitan, unique and exquisite jewellery is evident as he was awarded the prestigious Diamond De Beers Awards, designed and manufactured fine jewellery for the Saudi Royal Family, Queen Noor of Jordan, the Duke & Duchess Of Wellington, Elizabeth Taylor, Princess Diana and other well known international dignitaries around the world; thus gaining him international recognition.

Germani houses a huge range of quality, coloured gemstones and loose diamonds sourced from Belgium, Switzerland and the Far East. Customers can enjoy the luxury of purchasing directly from the wholesaler and having the jewellery made in-house. Each design is iteratively reworked until it fits the customer perfectly.

Prices are extremely competitive due to the magnitude of Germani's operation.

Set against the elegant backdrop of Four Seasons Hotel in Sydney, Miss Earth Australia hosted its spectacular finals on Saturday, September 8, 2019.

Miss Earth Australia is part of Miss Earth International, which has organizations in 120 countries and is now one of the world's top three international beauty pageants. Contestants come from all States and Territories. The winner, Miss Earth Australia 2019, will be sent to the international pageant to compete against candidates from around the world.

Seventeen women overall each had their turn, a sauntering down the red carpet runway, showcasing their couture evening gowns, made to custom fit each contestant. In the end Susana Downes, a stunning young woman from Sydney took home the crown and her elemental court were Brittany Dickson (Miss Charity Australia 2019), Sheridan Mortlock (Miss Air Australia 2019), Karyn Xie (Miss Water Australia 2019), and Pauline Chapman (Miss Fire Australia 2019). Congratulations to the current National Directors Juliet De Leon and Maria James and co-producer Marilou Gorga for pulling off an amazing night and hats off to the entire Miss Earth Australia 2019 team which consisted of Elmer Baylon and Joy Duca lead by Jas Lim - it was an amazing effort at a spectacular venue. Congratulations also to all the beautiful ladies and best of luck to the new Miss Earth Australia 2019 Susana Downes!

SUSANA DOWNES

"Susana loves getting on stage and showing her character, personality, passion and advocacy. As an actor, she is actually playing a different person, but as a beauty queen, she gets to be herself."

Meet the new face of Miss Earth Australia, Susana Downes. The 26-year-old winner is an Australian singer, actor, and dancer. She won the just concluded competition as the 18th titleholder taking over from her successor, Monique Shippen.

Susana has always been a big fan of pageants but she didn't really get into them until back in 2015. After watching the Miss Philippines-Australia 2013 pageant, she thought she could do a pretty good job joining it, but she wanted to wait until she finished her Bachelor's Degree (which she eventually completed in 2014). She entered her first pageant, Miss Philippines-Australia in 2015 and ended up winning Miss Popularity and the Miss Charity Queen Australia title.

A driving force is what accentuates your resilience to remain committed through the hurdles of any given profession. Beauty pageantry is one highly competitive industry, hence it is not lacking in such hurdles. Susana's love for pageantry is her reason for her sticking to it through thick and thin. It's the opportunity to go on stage and express herself - passion and advocacy is her biggest take-home dividend.

Susana has admitted that she actually comes to understand herself through her struggles in pageantry. Her forte is her ability to get out of her comfort zone to develop herself, concerning the problem at hand. She keeps herself grounded by sticking to an amazing workout routine, eating clean and healthy food, and surrounding herself with supportive people that encourage her every day, like her parents, her partner, and friends.

Luckily, the Downes family has been nothing short of supportive for their daughter. Always providing her with the moral, physical and financial support she needed especially during her early competitions.

Traveling the world as an international beauty queen has given Susana the opportunity to network with diverse people. This gives her the platform to meet new and amazing connections both locally and internationally. She has been able to form long term friendships out of these acquaintances which she is thankful for.

Susana Downes is definitely fast becoming a household name in the pageantry industry. This is due to the impact she has had on the global stage and her advocacy. We can't wait to see how Susana is going to use her platform as the newly crowned Miss Earth Australia to further promote her advocacy.

Twenty worthy women vied for a single crown on Saturday, November 9, 2019, and the grand final night turned out to be a smashing success!

The Miss Auto D' Elegance 2019 grand final night went down inside a Private Jet Hangar in Bankstown lined up with 20 Million dollars worth of Exotic Super Cars. It was an amazing networking event where fashion, pageantry, and community came together to raise funds for the Starlight Children's Foundation.

Following a three-hour showdown of gowns, glams, and charity based questions, here's how things turned out for this year's hopeful...

The 4th runner up was Maia Fuchs, the 3rd runner up was Sara Nhili, the 2nd runner up was Tatiana Bocharova, the first runner up was Madison Croft and Miss Auto D' Elegance 2019 was Sherry Davaa.

Congratulations to the founder and CEO of Miss Auto D' Elegance Michael LeTran for pulling off an awesome night - it was an amazing effort in a spectacular setting. Congratulations also to all the beautiful ladies and best of luck to the new Miss Auto D' Elegance 2019 - Sherry Davaa!

OZ Comic-Con

Oz Comic-Con has once again come and gone, leaving us with a thesaurus of emotions. StarCentral Magazine was there to experience everything, giving you coverage on the ground and reporting on panels.

This year fans of film and television got an opportunity to rub shoulders with some of their favourite celebrities. Sydney welcomed stars such as Avengers star Hayley Atwell, Riverdale star KJ Apa, Luke Baines, GQ's Breakthrough Actor of The Year in 2016 Keiynan Lonsdale, award-winning director, actor, comedian, bestselling author, podcaster and activist Aisha Tyler, Veronica Mars star Jason Doherty, Dominique Provost-Chalkley, and Michael Eklund.

The event also played host to a variety of authors of books and comic illustrators such as Bosslogic, Nicola Scott, Tom Taylor, Wayne Nichols, Stewart McKenny, Isabelle Carmody, and Queenie Chan among others.

Fans were able to get autographs and photos with their favourite celebrity and they were also able to ask questions during the celebrity Q&A panels which were included as part of the entry ticket. All in all, it was definitely an awesome day especially for comic book fans.

MAKE WAY FOR DR. TANISHA DENISE MANNING

Permitting herself to dream big and always striving to prove to naysayers that they are wrong about her are the main driving forces behind Tanisha Denise Manning's success. Manning is a heroine, a community leader and a successful entrepreneur who has faced adversity all of her life but still managed to come out on top. She may have been raised in one of the toughest neighbourhoods in California, but she somehow managed to make her way out of Oakland and Stockton and make a name for herself. Manning didn't allow others to define who she was - she turned her pain into power and her doubts into hope and now she's inspiring and empowering others and letting them know that they can make it despite their current circumstances.

From a tender age, several people told Manning that she was destined to fail at life. Hell bent on proving them wrong, Manning eventually graduated from high school and she decided to join the army. She was deployed in Iraq for a long time, and her hard work was able to prove to everyone that she was indeed a fighter and a go-getter. After serving in the military, she eventually started coaching people at the Florida Agricultural & Mechanical University, which earned her the title of "HBCU's First Life Coach." Nowadays, you can find Manning helping her community with the same passion and dedication when she served her country as an Iraqi veteran. She has touched many lives and constantly inspires anyone she comes in contact with via her holistic wellness studio in Puerto Rico called "Dama Bonita."

From surviving one of the toughest neighborhoods in California, to serving her country as an Iraqi veteran for over 13 years, to achieving numerous degrees including a PHD, to becoming a bestselling author with 4 books under her belt - Manning is hands down one of the most qualified people to give certified life coaching advice to anyone in need. StarCentral Magazine recently caught up with Manning to talk about her life and her impressive accomplishments and here's what went down:

Tell us your full name and something about yourself.

My name is Tanisha Denise Manning and I'm a woman of many hats. I have helped bring life in this world, coach them while they're here and bury them when they leave. I'm a certified birth doula, life coach/counselor, as well as a mortician.

How did you get into the wellness and life coaching business?

I started coaching over 15 years ago. I started as a volunteer for an organization called Aware Central Texas. While serving as an active-duty soldier in Texas, in my spare time I went through the training to become a life coach for the organization. I handled child protective agency cases and work with families that needed extra care, accountability, and support.

What do you like most about being in the holistic wellness business and being a life coach/counselor?

Relocating to Puerto Rico from California and opening my Holistic Wellness Studio has provided me with the opportunity to combine recreational therapy, coaching and mindfulness and create a wonderful experience for women to find peace and solitude.

The downside to being a life coach/counselor?

Honestly, there is no downside. I've been coaching for a very long time and had the opportunity to work with different agencies, create coaching programs for state and local governments and become the first Life Coach to serve at an HBCU. There is no downside, however, I'm not that fond of people in the field coaching others and yet they have no experience in the matter they're coaching their clients. I once saw a young woman profess to be a "marriage and family coach" and she had never been married. That's probably the only downside I can think of.

What has been the most memorable experience of your career so far?

I've traveled all over the world coaching and have done a great deal of services in correctional institutions and all of my experiences have touched my heart. However, I remember traveling to Sri Lanka and my most memorable moment there was when I had a school of 400 Sri Lankan students listening and receiving my lesson and they surprised me with a heart-felt thank you. 400 students at the same time, saying "Thank you Mrs. Manning" - it was really indescribable.

We're guessing you've been in the wellness industry for a few years now, what has been the most valuable lesson you've learned?

I have learned that I'm a healer because I've hurt and healed my own wounds. I've learned how to use my pain to power. I've learned that no one's opinion of you matters but your own. I learned that you define WHO you are and never let someone tell you or make you feel that you're not good enough. I learned my true power by helping others.

Is your family supportive of your career?

Absolutely. My husband is my best friend and number one supporter. I married the smartest man I know. An Aerospace Engineer that allows me to be ME and loves me for my imagination and drive.

What are your future plans? Inside your career or out of it.

I'm living my dreams! My future plans would be to introduce my business "Dama Bonita" to women all over the world and let them know that I have created a wonderful experience for them and they have an opportunity to find rest, peace and solitude and work with me privately in the beautiful island of Puerto Rico.

Breaking down the door to the fashion industry as a designer is never easy. It requires resilience and a unique aesthetic to distinguish from the competition. Sassy & Co is a platform that dedicates itself to promoting young designers and make their mark in the illustrious world of fashion. Sassy & Co fashion show was also the launch of Sassy & Co magazine which is a printed fashion platform launched to give a face and a voice to the culture, designers, and budding entrepreneurs down under. It acts as the fashion-forward leader in the latest styles and trends, and as a publication, it promotes the importance of community, ambition, and growth. An amazing show took place on the 31st of August at the luxurious yet spacious ballroom at the City Tattersalls Club.

Sassy & Co featured a total of 11 designers including Armando Clothing, GTAB, Lakshmi Bee, Trendy B, Lisa Swinbanks, Lanikai the Label, Leatheron, KARIMADON, Dolly, OOGII and La Koi Swimwear.

As the clock struck seven o'clock, MC Jojo Sebastian announced the much-anticipated fashion show—to the backdrop of the early 2000's pop music. Power poses, astute struts and style dominated the catwalk by the models as they show the Magnus opuses of their respective designers. The room's atmosphere carried a sense of pride amongst the designers and awe amongst the patrons—as living masterpieces reeled in and out on stage.

One of the most striking designs featured in the catwalk was Lakshmi bee's swimsuit collection. It gave off a cuff eye-catching and possessed an unparalleled prowess to each swimwear. Clean lines and patching was the result of sewing all the scrape fabrics together. Lakshmi Gowda is a designer who woven her passion for sustainability evident in her clothes.

La Koi Swimwear was also another designer whose designs are sublime. It's influenced by the European luxury lifestyle. Sleek sensuality and soft sophistication are showcased in the stunning swim designs from Australia. This exclusive swimwear combines function, style, and comfort in a luxurious fashion.

Another notable mention that draws on a unique aesthetic was OOGII, an International journalist, News Anchor, and designer whose Sydney brand creates glamorous and comfortable shoes, exquisite handbags and custom designs that are worn worldwide. There's also Lisa Swinbanks whose designs are classic, simple and sweet. Using monochrome tones, she combines feminine elegance with a flirtatious twist. GTAB was another eye-catcher wherein the fabrics are heavy on denim and print. The prints actually have lyrics of the designer's rap album.

As each designer and their model finished off each catwalk stride, the masterpieces were immortalized by the photographers. StarCentral Magazine would like to congratulate Maryrose Salubre for his remarkable event and good luck to every designer in their future endeavors.

PACIFIC

INTERNATIONAL RUNWAY

By Jasmine Banks

There's really nothing ritzier than a red carpet welcome.

Set in the stark sophistication of Manor on Elizabeth, a spectacular lineup of emerging and established fashion designers from Australia, New Zealand, and the Pacific at large showcased their stunning collections on the runway last Saturday, November 16.

The event was highly anticipated, after months of preparation by the owner and organiser Failepou Peni and the PIR team.

After announcing its international partnership with representatives from Samoa, Papua New Guinea, Fiji, Cook Islands and Tonga - the strength and significance of the Pacific International Runway event skyrocketed, resulting in a well-executed evening of fashion, culture and music.

The evening began with a moving performance that had the audience spellbound. Australia's Got Talent's Olina Loau kicked off the show with a special song number that moved the audience to tears.

What followed was a lengthy turn-by-turn display of high-fashion and artistic expression. Each designer had their own 5-minute segment to showcase his/her creations, accompanied by mood-setting music, dynamic lighting and strong media presence.

From eclectic Victorian inspired style to intricate elegance, to sustainable fashion - each designer brought character to the overall production.

Failepou's own label Lepou was the first on display. The Lepou range embraced the timeless cuts and beautiful details of the Victorian era. It incorporated stylistic structures, beautiful trimmings of lace and embroidery and luxurious fabrics. Separated by a short intermission, the first half of the show featured PNG designers such as Florence Jaukai Kamel - Bilum Fibre Art, Brandon, Sliches, NAARP and Tabu while the next segment showcased another round of established labels such as Public Island, Kovie Richardson, Kalani, Denani and Cecilia's Fashion House as well as upcoming designers such as the legendary boxer David Tua, Lisa Swinbanks and Lakshmi Bee.

The Vision of Pacific International Runway is first and foremost to act as a platform allowing designers from the Pacific the opportunity to gain exposure and recognition in the fashion industry.

While Pacifica fashion might traditionally be thought to include bright colours and tropical prints - Friday's show displayed extensive creativity, including high fashion embellishments, detailed structure, floral, lace and pleats.

Photographer GEORGE | 700500.COM.AU

For designers and audience alike, the energy in the Manor on Elizabeth was electric. With plenty of press, camera clicks and flashing lights, models floated up and down the runway like passing ships.

VIP guests were granted special access to prime seating, detailed run sheets, and a designated food & drink area for lanyard holders only.

Outside, guests could enjoy the splendid view from the Manor on Elizabeth deck, or the art on display nearby the entrance.

Noteworthy attendees included various dignitaries hailing from all around the Pacific, as well as Janet Sios, the director of PNG Fashion Week, Selena Short the CEO of Crunch Fitness Gyms, Councillor Dai Le, and the Mayor of Fairfield Frank Carbone.

It was beautiful to see the spirit of The Pacific shine through and expressed through couture and statement pieces, making its mark on the Australian Fashion scene.

The Pacific International Runway team should be very proud of the long awaited success of their event - undoubtedly only one of many more great things to come.

BARGAIN HUNTERS GUIDE TO SHOPPING

“You don’t need to update your fashion arsenal with each item you see as a ‘must-have’ on an Instagrammer’s fashion feed. Work on developing an individual style of your own – cuts that flatter you, fabric that keeps you comfy and tones that go well with your complexion.”

By: Jade Anderson

Living life as a girl is pretty tough! As our beloved Becky from the famous fashion movie, Confession of a Shopaholic would put it, it's like buying a cashmere scarf. You would think you are investing in cashmere only to realize later that your money has been spent into a blend of wool and cotton. The point being, you really don't have to churn out a lot of money in order to stay on top of your fashion game.

If you shop smart, you can really hunt down some amazing fashion bargains and put together killer outfits for yourself. And, here are four easy ways to do that. Let's begin:

Tip # 1: Build a Capsule Wardrobe

You really don't need to update your fashion arsenal with each item you see as a 'must-have' on an Instagrammer's fashion feed. Work on developing an individual style of your own – cuts that flatter you, fabric that keeps you comfy and tones that go well with your complexion. Use key clothing items to build a solid capsule wardrobe and then you can use the good old mix and match method to come up with a ton of outfits for each occasion.

Tip # 2: Look for Sample Sales

Keep an eye on the flyers for designer sample sales. You can find some of the most gorgeous, edgy and trendy accent pieces for a fraction of price there. Shop smart, take a best friend along and together you both can treat yourself with luxury fashion items without breaking the bank.

Tip # 3: Add Timeless Classics to the Mix

Polka dots for summers, stripes for spring and plaids for fall – some of these trends are truly timeless classics and would always be relevant to the fashion scene. Therefore, when you do decide to indulge a little, make sure it is one of these fashion pieces which you can style in multiple ways for seasons to come.

Tip # 4: Solids are Always Boujee

When in doubt, go for a monochromatic head to toe look! The secret to looking drop-dead gorgeous, just like a Hollywood diva out of her million-dollar villa is to spend on fabric that gives off a luxe vibe, such as satin or silk. Don't go for prints. Plain monochromatic look with a mirage of various textures, frills, ruffles, and laces would radiate a very polished and expensive look.

THREE SUMMER Fashion

TIPS THAT WILL NEVER GO OUT OF STYLE

Keeping tabs on the ins and outs of the fashion isn't really an easy job. Each year, owing to what's hot and popping at the fashion runways, style and fashion blogs churn out their own seasonal verdict on what should you be buying for the months to come. However, staying trendy doesn't always have to be this tough. Certain styles, cuts and colors are timeless classics and would always look super cool and stylish during the summers.

Here are three summer fashion trends that will never go out of style! If they flatter your personality, make sure you stick to them and be the best version of yourself for the entire season.

#1 Off the Shoulder Tops

Summer season is all about unleashing the hidden diva within yourself and go a little bold with your apparel choices. Off the shoulder tops and dresses would always be in style. It's the best way to flaunt your vacation tan; just hit the top of your shoulders with some highlighter and you are good to go. Off the shoulder dresses would work well with anything; denim, shorts, trousers, mini skirt you name it. Grab yourself a couple of pieces and you are set for the season.

#2 Lighter tones are your best friend

Royal blue, violet, burgundy, burnt orange, sienna, deep maroon – let these colors be the ones for your fall closet. Summer season is all about pretty pastels and calming cool tones. Powder blue, baby pink, mint or pastel tones would not only complement the seasonal vibe but also keep you breezy and cool since darker shades absorb more heat.

#3 Ditch the form-hugging silhouette

Unless you are about to wear Cinderella heels, don a sequin ball gown and hit a royal masquerade party, leave the form-hugging silhouette for the winters. Loose flowy tops and dresses work best for the summer season. You can add accessories such as a belt if you want to accentuate your curves, else flowy dresses with ruffles and laces give a pretty bohemian summer fashion vibe.

BONUS TIP: makeup and hair

For the summer season, your focus should be on subtle hues with lots of glow when it comes to makeup. Minimal eyes with a bright pop of colors on lip is always in for summers. For hair, loose curls, braids and buns are what always works.

FIVE INSTANT TRICKS TO LOOK MORE STYLISH

Dressing chic just comes naturally to some women while others must struggle a little to maintain a personal style. We say you ditch the seasonal trend book and device your own fashion rules to always look sassy and chic no matter what's the occasion. To us, a chic look would have the right amount of glamour mixed with an urban edginess. Here are a few ways to keep up the chic style:

Fashion Hack # 1: Go by the tri-color outfit rule

One of the simplest and basic rules to dress chic is to keep your outfit a little neat and put together; this you can achieve by not mixing more than three colors in your outfit at a time. While a kaleidoscope of tones and shades would appear desirable and artsy to some, pulling it off is not everyone's cup of tea. So, ensuring that you don't flaunt more than three colors in the same outfit at a time would make carrying an outfit easy for you.

Just so you know, basics such as a white top or black jeans won't necessarily count as a 'color'. Also, busy prints would count as one.

Fashion Hack # 2: Focus on the basics

We can't emphasize this point enough! Basics such as a black V-neck figure-hugging t-shirt; a white chiffon top with ruffled sleeves or a white crisp button-up are the key items that would lay the foundation of a solid chic outfit. Use them as a base to build your style. Add on an accent piece and take it up from there.

Fashion Hack # 3: Accessorize

Watches, dainty layered necklaces, trendy scarves, handbags, sunglasses – these minute details really accentuate your outfit. It shows that you pay attention to the details and ties the entire look together.

Fashion Hack # 4: Rock a Bright Pout

If it's summer season, go for a vibrant pink; if it's autumnal bliss, rock a deep plum! A bold pout makes for a loud and daring fashion statement. When you pair this look with the toned-down outfit it gives off a very cool trendy and uber chic vibe.

Fashion Hack # 5: Invest on a Good Pair of Jeans

Now, this may sound like a no-brainer, but a good pair of jeans can make or break your entire look. Opt for skinny jeans or slim-fit pairs that create an illusion of elongated legs and narrow waists. Now you can play with textures and colors for your top.
